

Over 90,000 Descendants Of Jews Kicked Out Of Spain And Portugal In 1492 Given Citizenship

(Israel National News) At least 90,000 alleged descendants of Sephardic Jews who were expelled during and after the Inquisition have been granted citizenship of Portugal or Spain since 2015, when those countries passed laws offering a naturalization process for such applicants as a form of “reparations” for past wrongs:

The laws were meant to atone for the Inquisition, a campaign of religious persecution unleashed at the end of the 15th century on the hundreds of thousands of Jews who had inhabited the Iberian Peninsula and flourished there.

Spain has received at least 153,000 applications for citizenship, while Portugal has received at least 86,000 applications, according to data published in Spanish and Portuguese media recently as part of annual reports on immigration trends. Spain has granted citizenship to 36,000 applicants, or about 23% of the total who applied. Portugal has granted citizenship to 63% of applicants, or more than 54,000 people. Many thousands of applications are still pending review in both countries.

More than two-thirds of the applicants in Portugal are Israeli, according to a report Sunday in Lisbon's Observador newspaper. In Spain, the share of Israelis was lower than 5%, according to data from late 2019. The latest data do not include figures from 2021 in Portugal. In Spain, there is data available only from the first three quarters of that year, when the country for the first time rejected a large number of citizenship-seekers under the reparations law.

Spain has rejected at least 3,019 applications, all but one of them in 2021, when the procedure for naturalization was toughened following fears of criminal activity by applicants. The country has also declined to decide on many cases, eliciting protests from applicants abroad. Portugal has rejected only a few hundred individuals.

The window for descendants of Jews expelled from Spain to complete their citizenship applications is closing. Spain's citizenship law initially allowed applications for only three years, but the government extended the deadline twice, including last September to account for bureaucratic issues connected to COVID-19. Applicants who applied before September 2021 have until February 2022 to complete the notarization of their application.

Meanwhile, Portugal's law is open-ended. But the revelation last month that Roman Abramovich, a Russian-Jewish billionaire, was naturalized in Portugal in April has reignited debate there over the 2015 legislation. Some Portuguese lawmakers proposed limiting the law's scope last year but withdrew their proposed changes amid an outcry from Jewish groups.

In Spain, the 2015 law has also prompted debate about whether the descendants of Muslims who were also driven out during the Inquisition should be given a path to citizenship. In both countries, the official Jewish community vets applications and pass on for the government's approval only the ones that it deems credible.

The Muslims invaded Spain and Portugal — conquered and occupied them for centuries — and they were rightfully driven out during the Reconquista.

By this logic, the European descendants of the Crusaders who conquered the Holy Land — but eventually were driven out — should be entitled to Israeli citizenship today — don't hold your breath for that to happen.

But the fact that there are literally thousands of “Spanish” names that have Jewish origins shows just how profoundly these nations were Judaized — and the “hispanic” race has been mixed with them.

So now the Jews want to rewrite history and portray their Muslim conspirators and their descendants as “victims” — as a justification for importing the Third World into Europe and destroying the white race and Christianity.

The Muslims and Jews literally worked hand-in-glove during the “Convivencia” to destroy Christian Spain and Portugal — and destroy the original race of Europeans — the Visigoths — who originally established those nations.

And the Inquisition, ironically, was orchestrated by Jews themselves — the lead inquisitor and torturer was Tomás Torquemada, a crypto-Jew — whose reputation for sadism and cruelty was matched only by the Bolshevik Jews who butchered 60 million Christians in Russia — in the greatest genocide in history.

In 1492, Ferdinand and Isabella issued the Alhambra Decree — the final edict of expulsion of the Jews to preserve Spain as a Christian nation for the Spanish people — fortunately at that time, the true Spanish people were not yet imprisoned by Marxist political correctness as they are today.
